Your golf business

Golf knowledge and the culture of golf is more than how to hit the golf ball. It's actually 10 % golfing skill, developed over time, and 90% a mental game.

That's why we will cover all aspects of the game so that even if you have or have not yet played the game, you will be challenged by this new research.

Joan is an award winning business woman, master teacher, avid golfer, popular speaker, and a co-author of Teeing Up for Success with a passion for inspiring women to enjoy and use the game for business success.

She and her PGA pros will demonstrate in this interactive program the E-Z business golf techniques of the game needed to move you to the next level.

For decades men have taken full advantage of relationships made on the golf course to launch deals and to secure their success in business. It's time to secure our fair share of this coveted networking space. It is on this ground that we will command attention of our boss, our colleagues and our clients. Quality time on the golf course will create relationships, foster promotions, and close business deals.

This interactive business/ life course will show you how you can embrace the game and use it effectively to move forward in your career.

Testimonial: "Wow what I have learned about my boss, colleagues and clients helps me lay down the strategy for my next business move. The extended time frame of the game and the leisurely pace was perfect and brought me closer to what I would not have discovered otherwise about a personality, product secret or trends in the company or industry."
